

Mississippi River Geotourism Program Website Launch and Certificate Ceremony

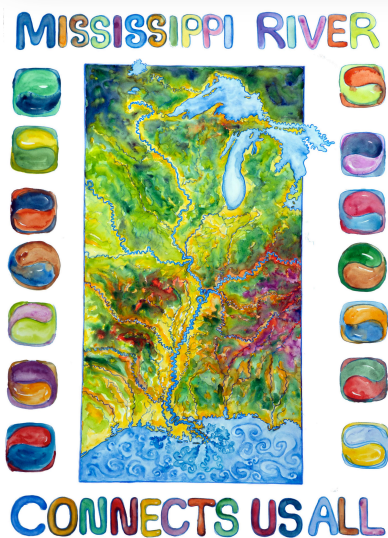

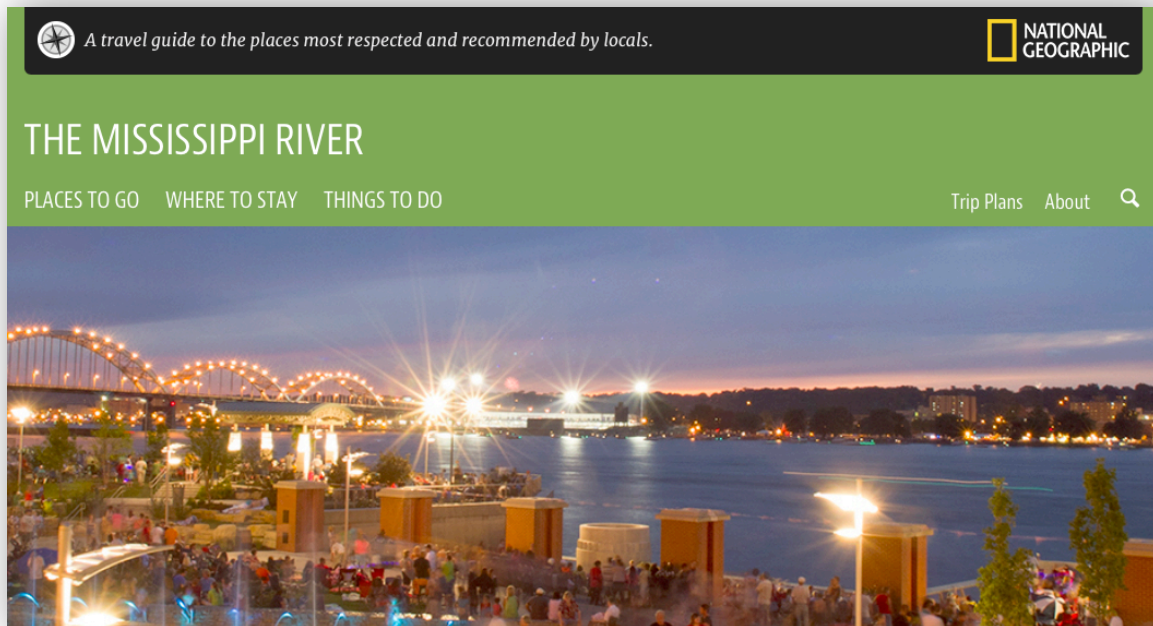

To celebrate what's so special about our place, as described through the words, pictures and videos of YOU, our own residents, and highlighted by National Geographic,

Please join us Wednesday, September 14 at 3:00-4:00pm

Natchez Visitor Center | 640 S Canal St. | Natchez, Mississippi

Please RSVP to Liz Smith-Incer at liz_smith-incer@nps.gov or 228 230-4120.

MississippiRiver.NatGeoTourism.com

National Geographic in partnership with the Mississippi River Geotourism Council is rolling out the Mississippi River Geotourism Website, an interactive site that highlights what's unique and authentic about places along the Mississippi River through the voices of the people that live there.

Over the last 18 months people from along the Mississippi River have contributed almost 2,000 nominations of sites and attractions, festivals and events, small businesses and bed and breakfasts to the website, helping to tell the story of what's so special about the people, places and businesses along the River. The website is now live and is a great resource to help attract visitors to the region and point them to both the popular and the lesser known gems that can be discovered along the River.